CEDAR SISTERS

INDIGENOUS VOCAL TRIO

Dynamite Vocals, Hand Drums/Big Drums ground us culturally and spiritually in the magic of who we are as North America's proud Indigenous people.

Cedar Sisters is an Indigenous vocal/drum trio. Two of the singers, Shannon Thunderbird, and Kate Dickson are Coast Ts'msyen originally from Northern British Columbia, the land of the Totem Poles. The third singer is Sandy Horne of the iconic 1980s band the Spoons. The trio sings in a variety of Indigenous languages including Sm'algyax, Haudenosaunee, Anishinaabe, Lakota. Music starts with rhythmic drums, songs that pulse with energy and infectious joy. They seep into the heart and audiences can't help but join in. The memory of a great experience resonates long after the music stops.

We are based in Toronto and perform at a wide variety of events including conferences, festivals, conventions, seminars, educational events, public and private organizations.
